I am very pleased at the way NLC has helped my son. Last year he was having a difficult time keeping up and remembering the work he was dealing with in school. This year is completely opposite. His progress reports have improved greatly and he is so well organized. He turns his homework in on time, his test grades have risen, his overall outlook towards school has become so much more positive. The way everybody at NLC takes a personal interest in the ~~star~~ student they're helping is great. I would like to thank ~~every~~ everyone here for their help and the support that they have given him since he has started coming here.

Dear Nadine:

We greatly appreciate the extra attention you've given our son, Adam, this school year. You've had such an effect on him!

Not only have his grades shown improvement, but his self-esteem has as well. As you know, math gives Adam great difficulty. Before you began tutoring him, he was spending hours every night doing math homework, and his frustration was so upsetting. When anyone in the family had tried to help him, he simply became more frustrated and impatient with us—and with himself.

With your assistance, Adam has regained some of his confidence, and his math homework has again become manageable (for all of us). Without you going into school during the week, and helping to modify his work, I'm not sure if we could keep him on track.

Math and other subjects will continue to present future challenges for Adam as he begins middle school, but with you on our team, we are approaching next year without fear, thanks to you.

Sincerely,

Jenny [REDACTED]

I am a senior at Richland Center High. During the application process to the university of my dreams I encountered a huge obstacle. I had taken three ACT tests and 3 SAT tests. It seemed at that point I was not going to bring my math score up enough to be accepted. Norland's Learning Center tutored me not only in math but strengthened my reading lives and overall success. I was able to raise my ACT score by four points, meeting the testing requirements necessary to be accepted.

Thank you for your patience and understanding!

My son was in 4th grade + didn't like school. Every afternoon we struggled over homework. I was frustrated + so was he. I suggested tutoring but he resisted - not wanting anyone to know. Not wanting to continue the afternoon battles + seeing him lose confidence I finally took him to NLC. He was assured it would be confidential. He was tested + his weaknesses were identified. He has been at NLC for about 2 years + he is a different boy. He likes school, he is confident in who he is + what he has achieved. He now knows he is "smart" and it would have been "dumb" not to get help. His grades have continued to improve and he recently ~~had~~ was on the High Honors roll.

I want to thank Nadini for her expert help. ~~My son~~ ^{My Son} has enjoyed working with all the staff but one person who made a special impact on him. Dan was an excellent teacher + became a mentor for my son. They had video games in common and were instantly friends. Dan taught without being intimidating or judgemental. He made ~~of~~ learning fun. What a gift! →

I can't express how thankful we both are. My son is laughing because I have tears in my eyes writing this. I hope he remembers some of the valuable things you taught him... and the math too.

In summary it's the best decision I've made and a great investment in his future. There were months in the winter I struggled writing out the checks that could have went to pay other bills but it was worth it.

Thank you.

Julie Hopkins

P.S. - Casey would still not like his name used.

Both of our kids attended NLC with very positive results. We were so pleased that we've recommended NLC to the teachers, who were working with families who's kids were struggling in school. We've also recommended NLC to many parents who's kids were struggling. It's made such a difference sending our kids there.

The staff at NLC is outstanding. As a parent in the waiting area, I watched as each staff person transitioned from student to student. The staff always takes into account what is age appropriate for each student and their personality. Some kids seemed so down when they were sitting and waiting, but then the staff person comes, says the right thing, and kid perks right up. They just have a way of exuding such positiveness. As a parent, you can't help but smile.

Thanks for everything you've done for Lauren & Travis. They were both sad to leave. In fact, we were driving around our new town, and Travis said, out of the blue, "I miss Mrs. Dorland's." I think he really wants to go this summer. We've been working on our Bridge workbooks and reading, but it's not the same. We'll all miss you. You were such a part of our routine.

Best wishes for lots of successes!
